

"Woman's Work is Never Done."

The constant care causes sleeplessness, loss of appetite, extreme nervousness, and that tired feeling. But a wonderful change comes when Hood's Sarsaparilla is taken. It gives pure, rich blood, good appetite, steady nerves.

WHERE THEY LIVE.

A Directory of the City Residences of the Teachers Attending Normal.

There are over a hundred teachers from all over the county in attendance at the normal institute. They have come to live in Iola for a month and the REGISTER hopes that they will find the atmosphere of the city so congenial and life here so pleasant that they will all return to their homes with the resolve firmly fixed in their minds that they marry and move to Iola to live. For the convenience of the teachers themselves who will want to find each other at various times during their stay here and also for the convenience of their many friends who will wish to find the teachers, the REGISTER has compiled with the kindly assistance of Mr. Billie and the teachers the following directory of the Iola residences of the teachers.

A number live near town and these are given as living at "home." A few have not had time to give their addresses. The first town given is the home postoffice.

SOLDIER LETTER.

ERNEST JORDAN WRITES TO THE REGISTER ABOUT RECENT EASTERN HAPPENINGS.

UNITED IN MARRIAGE.

Mr. Aldo Funston and Miss Maude Esse Married in the Presence of Their Friends.

The following letter was received yesterday by the REGISTER from Ernest Jordan. The letter is written in two small booklets which had previously served as tax report books. There were a number of reports in the books some in Spanish and some in the native language, all of which have been left out for obvious reasons.

Apalit, P. I., May 7, 1899.

From Manila to Apalit is about 33 miles, but as most of our tedious journey has been told I shall only relate that of the past week, or what is known here as the advance upon Calumpit.

We were supposed to leave Malolos Monday morning, but for some reason we did not get away until Tuesday morning.

During our stay at the "capital" the armored train had become a reality. It was equipped with an armor-piercing cannon taken off the Oregon, two gatlings and a five-barrel 2 pounder Hotchkiss. Montana was on the right and Kansas to the left of the railway and this train was the main spoke in the wheel.

We advanced within about 1000 yards of the rebel trenches at the river by Calumpit and at 11:35 the train opened upon them with a telling effect. As the rebels fled we followed to the river. The railroad bridge was so badly damaged that we could not cross. Wednesday morning a crossing had been fixed and Kansas was pushed across to take Calumpit, which did not require more than an hour. The rebels had retired to just across the river and were strongly entrenched and aided by two cannons and two maxims rapid firing guns. Company I was sent to the deserted trenches on the railway grade to make the enemy as much trouble as possible. We did the best we could but the sun was too much for us and we fell back a few rods into the Calumpit freight room where we punched port holes in the brick wall and gave every head a warm time whenever it came in sight. All day we shot and shot and shot. In the forenoon Joe Scott, of Pittsburg, was shot but the wound will not be fatal. Thursday morning a piece of artillery was brought up to aid us. After shelling the woods down the river to the left, Colonel Funston and part of Co. I crossed the river and began a flank fire on the rebels while the rest of us "traced" their position in front. It was just at noon when the rebels began to flee and they ran like rabbits, that is all who could get away did. They went so fast that their cannon, lots of ammunition, guns, and even some of them almost ran their clothes off. The remainder of Co. I was soon across the bridge followed by the regiment and gave them the warmest chase they have had on the north line yet. This was the biggest bag of game we have had yet, the enemy's loss being estimated at about 500 killed and wounded. Later in the evening a number of prisoners were taken with arms. The day was awful hot, quite a number being overcome with heat.

Friday the colonel and adjutant of the rebel force came in hunting the colonels of Montana and Kansas, asking for terms of peace. Saturday we were taken off the line and moved to Apalit and quartered on Kansas avenue and the bank of the Rode Pampanga, where we have fine swimming and boating, and I judge by the number of nets and hooks I see that the river has lots of fish.

Sunday evening a commission from Gen. Otis went to treat with the rebels and take out some provision to some American civilian prisoners. Whether the provisions ever reached the persons they were intended for seems to be rather doubtful.

Tuesday morning Gen. Hale's brigade advanced upon San Fernando, several miles north of here, the result of which you will have heard before this reaches you.

The impression seems to have gained ground that this country is one continuous jungle, and that the hills are very numerous. The only jungle that we were in was southeast of Malolos and we were only two hours going through it.

The country is level, the hills rising to the right and left of us. The soil is rich, and water is abundant. From Manila to Malolos rice is almost exclusively cultivated, and nearly every farm or tract is surrounded by a small bamboo fence, the protection being a perpetual one and breaking the wind. All the tillers of the soil live in bamboo huts, and like the Hollanders, live in small towns or settlements.

From Malolos to Apalit corn, the small old yellow corn, and sugar cane seems to take the place of rice. Many of the sugar cane farms have their mill out in the center of the field, very careful however, to be on the bank of a river or close by. But then in this immediate vicinity it would be hard to get very far from a stream or irrigating ditch.

The system of irrigation beats anything I ever saw. The country is so level that the tide brings in all the water needed and the little flood gates can be opened or closed as the necessity arises.

The railway affords good shipping facilities, but I am told that many tons of products are marketed by boat at Manila, for as the tide recedes good time can be made, more especially if the breeze happens to be in the direction to push on their sail.

To Malolos scarcely any crops are growing, but here the fields are green. The country we have passed over is practically deserted, the Filipinos (women and children) having fled before us. The average population of the 14 or 15 towns we have passed through is about 15,000, perhaps not so much.

Farming is done under difficulties; the plow being a stick with an iron or steel point on it and a few having steel moldboard; but none of the plows have but one handle. The harrow is made of bamboo, the branch being cut to serve for teeth. The cultivator is a very crude hoe; corn and sugar cane is easily cultivated for after the planting in rows about eighteen inches apart, the harvesting is next in order. As I have seen grain growing, all sizes, and harvested, I guess all one has to do is to keep planting and harvesting and finding a market. Everything is cheap except what you have to buy.

The first artillery fire we met was at Calumpit. If it isn't terrifying just ask any of the boys who were in that freight room April 27.

The Iola boys are in pretty good health, but a few cold feet don't warm even in this climate.

A year ago today since we left Iola, and we hope it will not be a year hence until we return. From the reports we get we have some hopes of going via New York, but then we will have to be satisfied if we don't. We don't get what we want everytime anyway.

The boys are gathering souvenirs and many are being mailed home; most of them will have a very good collection.

We are coming home, but when? Politics don't cut very much ice. The only candidate for nomination we know of is Miss Wilson for county treasurer, and it is the unanimous wish of the Allen county boys that she be elected the Republican candidate. We would like to help elect her.

Wages are good here; the volunteers still get their $15.00 per month, while the first class mechanics in the shops get from $20 to $25 per month. Farm hands can get as much as $1 Mexican anyway and maybe a raise of $2 if he is a real good one.

JORDAN.

The bundle of REGISTERS were thankfully received by de gang. Thanks.

Funston-Esse.

In the presence of a large assemblage of the invited friends of the contracting parties, Rev. Irwin of Geneva Wednesday evening pronounced the words which made Mr. Aldo Funston and Miss Maude Esse man and wife.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents at the corner of Neosho and Walnut streets at 8:30 o'clock. The pleasant rooms of the house had been beautifully decorated by the members of the Iolan Club, of which the bride is a member, in pink and green, the colors of the club. The stairway and the windows were draped in the colors and the bride party stood beneath an arch of green boughs and pink ribbon. Miss Floy McGlashan presided at the organ and played the wedding march, to the measures of which the bride and groom, accompanied by Miss Clara Foust and Mr. Walter Jones, marched down the stairway and took their places beneath the arch. Just about a quarter of a century ago, Rev. Irwin at Geneva, united in marriage Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Esse, and the solemnity and beauty of the ceremony Wednesday was enhanced by the fact that the same minister, using the same ring which the bride's father had given her mother, pronounced the solemn words.

After the ceremony there was a rush of congratulations and good wishes and then the guests scattered themselves informally over the house and the verandas to seek the cool evening breezes. A dainty wedding dinner was served and then the young ladies and gentlemen cut a large cake in which were buried a ring, a dime and a darning needle. Miss Pearl Anderson found the needle in her slice, indicating her as the next bride. Walter McNeil found the dime and will darn his own hose and the dime could not be found.

Both the young people are well known and esteemed all over the county and they will begin their wedded life with the good wishes of everybody. Miss Esse was born and raised near Geneva and has since lived in Iola where she graduated from the public schools. She has since made an enviable reputation as a teacher in the country schools. She is possessed of a charming personality which has won friends wherever she has been. Mr. Funston is the fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Funston of Carlyle, and a brother of General Funston. He received a broad education in the Iola schools and in the state university and he has shown strong traits of character which indicate success in future undertakings of life. The young people will reside for the present in one of the houses on the farm of the groom's father, and the REGISTER wishes to join the many friends in wishing them success and happiness in life.

A large number of handsome and valuable presents were received by the young people from their friends in the county.

"You May Bend the Sapling But Not the Tree."

When disease has become chronic and deep seated it is often difficult to cure it. That is the reason why it is best to take Hood's Sarsaparilla when disease first shows itself—in pimples, headaches, indigestion, or other troubles which poor blood, weak stomach or disordered liver or kidneys. This great medicine regulates the whole system. It never disappoints.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic.

GRAIN-O BRINGS RELIEF

to the coffee drinker. Coffee drinking is a habit that is universally indulged in and almost as universally injurious. Have you tried Grain-O? It is almost like coffee but the effects are just the opposite. Coffee upsets the stomach, ruins the digestion, effects the heart, and disturbs the whole nervous system. Grain-O tones up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise. 15 and 25 cents per package.

Among the Courts.

The various courts of the city began Wednesday a short season of unprecedented activity, there being suits and trials in nearly every court in the city.

Matt Dalton, the alleged gentleman guilty of the alleged crime of stealing a horse some time ago in Iola afterwards fleeing to Oklahoma, the land where they hang horse-thieves, and later rescued and brought back here by the sheriff, appeared before Judge Gard, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to await trial in the district court.

W. L. Robb began suit in Judge Potter's court against C. R. Reynolds for $21.75 wages due him for carrying the mail from Iola to Wise in the year 1898. Reynolds got the job and hired Robb to do the work and then the plaintiff claims didn't pay him.

A young man named Hendrickson and a friend were recently dismounted out of a Missouri regiment of volunteers and on their way to an aunt's down at Parsons went to work on the Missouri Pacific section at Iola, working nine days. The road was short on hands and the boys claim the boss said he would keep them a month. After nine days some of the old hands had quit on account of a small cut in wages, returned, the old scale being restored, and the boss laid Hendrickson off and a week or more passed before he could get his money. So he began suit for a month's wages in Gard's court.

C. R. Flake brought suit in Potter's court against Lewis Logan for breach of contract.

R. M. Wolfe began garnishment proceedings in the same court against L. E. Woods.

Farmers, Plant Sorghum!

There is no wisdom in buying cheap "store" molasses when by planting an acre or two of sorghum, and in the fall hauling the cane to Claiborne's mill, you can have it made into good, wholesome syrup. You have the land, and the labor will be trifling, while the result will not only save you a great many dollars on your syrup and sugar bill, but will give you an unstinted supply of good wholesome sweetness for your family.

FOR A RESERVE FUND.

Important Changes to Be Made in the Laws of the Modern Woodmen—More Territory to Be Added.

Kansas City, Mo., June 7.—The head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America, during its first day's sessions held in convention hall yesterday decided two matters of great importance to the order and one which is scarcely of less interest. The most important action taken was at the night session, when the camp voted for the formation of a reserve fund of some kind, the particular class of reserve fund to be decided before the final adjournment is taken this week. The action next in importance was the adoption of the recommendation of the committee on laws that the order be extended into the states of California, except the city of San Francisco; Colorado, Oklahoma, Indian territory, Maryland, except the city of Baltimore; Delaware; New Jersey, except Jersey City; New York, except the city of Buffalo and the city of Greater New York; Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, except the city of Boston; Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine. The third question, and one which excited scarcely less interest and brought out a debate which was fully as warm, was the proposition of the rule which makes ineligible for membership any man who is "engaged in the manufacture or sale of malt, spirituous or vinous liquors as a beverage, either in the capacity of proprietor, stockholder, agent or servant."

Street Incident.

"My dear sir," exclaimed Lawyer Bartholomew Livingston, meeting the Rev. Dr. Archibald Windham on the village street, "What does this mean? I thought you were laid up with all sorts of bad diseases?" "And so I was," replied the reverend gentleman, "I had an attack of indigestion and from that time on my whole system has been in a disordered condition until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla which has put me on my feet and cured all my stomach troubles."

"I don't doubt," it said the lawyer. "This medicine cured my wife of rheumatism and my little girl of scrofula. When they say it's the best medicine money can buy they only tell the truth."

"Yes, yes," they do," replied the minister, and the two passed on.

Notice.

Having moved my shop from West street to South street, 3 doors south of Evans drug store, I am ready to do all kinds of blacksmithing, except shoeing, which John Taylor will do in all its varieties. I will also do all kinds of wood work on buggies and farming machinery. I also have a carriage and buggy trimmer who will make tops, cushions buggy backs to order.
